

The team at Warner Fences Canterbury recently installed security fencing and sliding gates for The Ministry of Primary Industries in Christchurch. The commercial construction company organizing all of the work onsite wanted one contractor to complete all of the boundary fencing, concrete retaining walls and nibs. Warner worked with the commercial construction company and the end client, MPI, to ensure the day to day running of their very busy premises wasn't interrupted and that everything ran as smoothly as possible. Completed during Winter, in wet weather, it was a job that presented challenges. One of these being, pouring half of the gate footing and then coming back to pour the other half, as requested by the end client who was very appreciative. Being highly organised and keeping the lines of communication open ensured the project was completed to the highest standard.
