

Greg Main from Pets in the City contacted Warner Fences Auckland North about a sliding gate and some fencing for his new branch in the Wairau Valley, North Shore.

An old industrial building was being converted to a pet hotel daycare. Greg wanted security fencing for the site at 1.8 metres high and a 6 metre wide sliding gate that gave a positive and welcoming first impression to customers and their pets.

The 26.4 metres of aluminium Manawatu III fencing was installed with 75mm x 75mm posts for extra strength.

Karen and Kevin Jones from Warner's faced challenging weather conditions throughout the installation on site, continuous heavy rain meant things were not as straightforward as usual. However they determinedly and successfully worked around this to ensure the gate and fencing were installed and finished for the opening of the premises. The end result is practical security fencing that looks great and suits the needs of the business.
