

Summerset Retirement Village in the Bay of Plenty contacted their local Warner franchise, Kevin Gardyne about fencing, automated gates and balustrades for their new development.

Being a large site, there were many requirements and the various levels on site provided some challenges.

Detailed planning and organisation ensured that everything went smoothly. One of the challenges of the site was the fencing required alongside retaining walls, not only was the installation more technical but the nature of this work presented many health and safety challenges too.

These were all successfully navigated and the job was completed with no near misses or accidents on site.

Summerset are thrilled with the product and service provided by Warner Fences and continue to work with them as the development expands and new sections are released.
